Has created many a new business;
Has enlarged many an old business;
Has revived many a dull business;
Has reached many a distant business;
Has assisted many a failing business;
Has preserved many a large business;
And insures success in any business.

HORACE GREELEY says of it:—Stephen Girard used to say in substance: "I have always considered advertising liberally as the great medium of success in business, the prelude to wealth. And I have made it a rule to advertise in all times as well as the best mode of securing what I wished to obtain. My experience, hence having taught me that money is well laid out, as by continually keeping my name before the public it has secured many sales that otherwise would have lost."

EASTERN DATES TO OCTOBER 16.

EASTERN STATES.

Mr. Froude on National Affairs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—At a banquet given to James Anthony Froude, the great English historian, last evening, the distinguished guest made a short speech in which, after alluding pleasantly to the friendly reception he met with, and returning thanks for the honor done him, he spoke of the national friendship which exists between England and America. He said: "I insist that England and America do not stand to one another as foreign nations—foreign in the sense that France or Russia is foreign to the United States. Both politically separate we may be, but we cannot shake off our relationship. Sprung from a common stock, with a common history, common language, common laws, changed as we both are by Providence with carrying out that grand principle of liberty on which, as we believe, the amelioration of mankind depends, we may be rivals, but rivals only as to which of us shall represent those principles most wisely and effectively. We may quarrel, but when we quarrel it will be with the peculiar bitterness which distinguishes family disputes, but the very acrimony is itself an evidence of the closeness which binds us, for the sting arises from a supposed absence of the special good will which each of us conceives we have a right to look for from the other.

THURSDAY MORNING OCTOBER 17, 1872

The Campaign of Contradictions.

The plan of the Greeley campaign is not one that commends itself to the candid mind as either rational or honest Mr Greeley whose only pronounced and settled article of faith in political economy is that of the highest kind of high protective tariff allies himself with the party that embraces nearly all the most radical free-trade dreamers of the country and offers to cooperate with them in running the government upon the basis of their notions provided they can get a majority of the Congress to agree with them Mr Greeley whose most distinguished labors during a long and industrious career as one of the foremost journalists of the country or of the world were devoted to the emancipation of the colored people of the South and the abolition of the system of human slavery is become the ally of the slaveholder and of the party that chose a devastating war rather than submit to have more free States admitted into the Union Mr Greeley who did more than any other man living or dead to precipitate the nation into that fratricidal struggle which drenched one-half the entire country in blood and draped the whole land North and South in mourning, is asking to be made President on the ground that his elevation to this position will tend to reconcile the people of the two sections of the country to each other and heal the heart-wounds caused by the war Mr Greeley, who only last year was the most profuse in praise of General Grant and his administration of the Government now stands the central figure in that motley group composed of the worst elements of all political parties, who seem to have dedicated themselves to the one labor of traducing the President and all who approbate his political course The Hercules of the early years of the Republican party is its Thersites to-day

Republicans and Democrats alike believed Mr Greeley to be an honest man if any were honest in politics and had no reason to think otherwise, notwithstanding his occasional departures from what seemed the rational and natural course for an honest journalist to pursue, till the Baltimore Convention opened their eyes to a phase of his character which had not been revealed to them before The Cincinnati Convention was apparently not in any respect unlike the movements of disaffected and soured factions of the Republican and other political organizations, which had taken place before and which had always carried with them a greater or less number of honest well meaning people, deceived by those who desired to use them Mr Greeley was considered a person likely to be led into just such a movement, and while the Republican party regretted his course they [illegible] ly to go over to the Democracy This idea the Baltimore Convention dispelled The chance for the Presidency offered by that Convention which was just no chance at all, blinded his eyes to the light of public sentiment that was shining all around him, and he accepted the delusive bribe of a place on the Democratic ticket, and embarked in that unparalleled campaign of calumny which is now being conducted against the Republican party The history of American politics fails to show another example of reckless disregard of all principle and precedent in the manner of choosing a candidate, in the character of the candidate chosen, or in the mode of conducting the contest before the country which can be compared to this one The apostasy of Horace Greeley from the Republicans is matched only by the stupendous fraud that made him the candidate of the Democrats If there is a single supporter of Greeley, no matter what his political antecedents might have been, who does not consider that he has been cheated at some stage of the transaction, it would be interesting to know upon what theory of the case he bases his reasoning

A man who has taxable property of the value of $1,000, pays to the city $7 00 taxes per year If he uses only a single faucet and keeps no bath tub, he pays $21 a year for water for his family This makes his total of city taxes and water rates $31 50 per year

If the city built its own water works, the interest on the money borrowed for that purpose would be, say, $60,000 per annum The water rate could be reduced one half and still it would produce sufficient revenue to pay $30,000 per year of this interest, leaving a remainder of $30,000 to be paid by taxation

The taxable property of the city amounts to between nine and ten millions—say nine millions for round numbers To raise the $30,000 would require a levy of 3½ mills special tax The man with $1,000 worth of taxable property would then pay $10 83 taxes, and $12 water rates, in all $22 83 instead of $31 50 which he now pays Thus would be a clear saving of $8 67 As the city increases in population and wealth, the special tax levied for the purpose of paying interest on the bonds would proportionately diminish, allowing the income from the consumption of water to remain steady But, in fact, this would increase in a ratio equal to that of the increase of consumers So that in a few years there would be no further taxation on account of the water works, and the water rates might even be reduced still lower

It is mainly the smaller tax payers of the city who are to be benefited by the city s taking into its own hands the furnishing of water to its inhabitants; and these constitute not only a majority in number but in value also, of the property holders of the city

The larger tax payers, however, as a general thing are larger consumers of water, using more about their dwellings, gardens stables, etc., so that most of them would find the burden lighter if they were supplied with water by the city and contributed their share to pay the expense of the works

We understand an effort is making at Salem to have the Legislature name the Water Commissioners for Portland, in the act creating the board No possible good can come of such an amendment, while it may result in great evil The Mayor of the city in whom the appointment is vested by the bill as it stands, knowing the people of the city by long acquaintance with them in their business relations, is far better qualified to select the Commissioners than the Legislature possibly can be We suspect this movement has a political Job at the bottom of it If so the defeat of the bill would be preferable to its being used for such purposes The city of Portland can better afford to wait till another meeting of the Legislature than to have the water supply made a mere means of supporting party pots and rewarding party services out of the public purse The cost of public works under such management invariably exceeds the amount actually necessary for their construction by a large sum, the margin being essential to make the thing serviceable as a party machine

It is to be hoped that the act to provide for voting by ballot which passed the Senate early in the session will not be overlooked in the House in the confusion incident to the last days of the Legislature and the contest over more exciting questions This measure is a very important one and does not come up as party legislation On its passage in the Senate which is equally divided between Republicans and Democrats the bill received [illegible] out of 26 votes If a vote of the people were taken upon it there would we believe be a majority in at as large relatively in favor of it as it received in the Senate

FROM THE CAPITAL

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

SALEM Oct 16th 1872

The Rubicon is passed At 2 P M yesterday the House resumed consideration of the Locks Bill as amended by its select committee The first amendment extends the term of lease from ten to twelve years Upon this amendment the fight against the bill was made Here the camps of the opposing factions were pitched In sullen silence each sat during the reading of the amendment preparing for the hostile shock and when the last mellow cadence fell from the lips of the Clerk an advance was sounded by the gentleman from Benton and the attack began listening breathlessly—watching anxiously each evolution of the adverse hosts—attested by evidence more convincing than mere words the deep, abiding interest in this important contract, felt by all sections and classes in our State In a brief speech devoted chiefly to exposition of the gravity of the question before the House Mr Simpson explained the character and intent of the proposed enactment He drew a well defined picture of the enormous advantages that would accrue to the State if this bill should pass and called upon Representatives to rise superior to the short sighted ambitions of the present and devotion to the interests of any man or set of men As he took his seat he received a hearty round of applause

A CROWDED ZONE,

Mr Patton arose to reply, but taking too much latitude in the discussion was called to order whereupon he protested as champion of the people of Marion county and in behalf of an incensed Commonwealth, against the infamous fraud proposed by the amendment Mr Patton took his seat He was followed by Mr Rufus Mallory, who addressed the House for a half hour in what was conceded by the opponents of the bill, even, as of the whole session For sound argumentation keen analysis, perfect arrangement of facts and figures and oratorical effect this address has not been equalled in these Halls for years Mr Mallory was glad his colleague Mr. Patton, had assumed the onerous responsibility of Champion of Marion county He referred in polite but most forcible terms of condemnation to the course pursued by certain gentlemen in introducing charges of corruption and bribery for the purpose of influencing members to vote against the bill Did Mr Mallory s masterly effort the success [illegible] is said it was [illegible] to be due About 5 o clock things began to get incandescent Throughout the city the result of the vote was awaited with intensest interest The spectators that thronged the House moved restlessly hither and thither along its aisles or sat in the luxurious upholstery of the lobby intent upon the fray On the floor the excitement was scarcely less intense Here men felt that the old, old conflict between labor and capital—between the people and a

GIGANTIC CORPORATION U. SCHEME

(between Patrician and Plebs) was about to be waged again Upon the decision of this hour hung the most vital of all material interests Therefore, not a seat in the House was vacant save that of Mr Cranor, who was too ill to be present At half past five it was evident that the unequal contest was ended And when the Speaker announced the question before the House the noisy bubblings of lookers on were hushed until profound stillness the Clerk commenced to call the roll The ayes came forth fearlessly sonorously, the noes with a spiteful vehemence that evinced how heavily the consciousness of defeat rested on the gastronomic region of the opposition And when the result was announced ayes 24 noes 14 men knew that the first outpost had been taken Confident of final victory, the friends of the bill exchanged congratulations on the floor, as men who have fought long and gallantly The faces of the opposition after the battle reminded one of the woe-stricken fathers of Edinburg hastening to learn tidings from fateful Flodden Flodden—only "woe and woe and lamentation Joaquin Miller aptly expresses their change of countenance when he says in "The Isles of the Amazons

They first looked fair, and then looked fair

THE MORNING SESSION

has been occupied in the discussion of an amendment offered by the Champion of Marion county which provides that after the Locks are completed the Commissioners shall be authorized to lease the Locks for ten years at a rental not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars a year at the expiration of the ten years the State to own the Canal without further payment—mirabile dictu!

THE SENATE

pursues the even tenor of its way unvexed by angry debate The clerks are trying to wade through a sea of troubles in the shape of an enormous accumulation of messages from the House

THE PORTLAND POLICE BILL

has been on the desk of the President for three days He has not yet signed it By to-morrow we hope to be able to report something like progress on the Portland Water Bill Numerous other measures of public interest will be dealt with as soon as the Locks Bill has been disposed of in the House The Senate wants to adjourn on Saturday at the holy hour of midnight but may hap the House will prove refractory and refuse to concur in the joint resolution

THE DEAF MUTES

Now under instruction of Prof W S Smith in this city gave a brief entertainment yesterday at 1 P M at the Congregational Church which was attended by both Houses The honorable gentlemen seem to be highly pleased with the proficiency shown by those wards of the State in their peculiar art From the angry turbulence of the Locks discussion or soporific monotone of "reading of messages from the House, members found relief in tripping the light fantastic toe, at the Opera House last evening on the occasion of what had been heralded as

A GRAND RECEPTION

To the dignitaries of the State As neither your reporter or correspondent were tendered the courtesy of a complimentary ticket they are unable to speak farther of the affair.

I noticed in yesterday s commercial column an article from an Eastern journal on Oregon manufactures The paragraph quoted below is from the San Francisco News Letter I give it as one of the few just tributes Oregon has received from San Francisco

The manufacture of cloths, Cassimeres, Tweeds and Flannels on this coast is at this time equal to the consumption, and for some past the importation from Atlantic ports have been inconsiderable This is owing to the superior quality of the goods made here which are composed entirely of wool and also to the less price at which they are offered as compared with Eastern goods The manufactures of the Wallamet Woolen Mills located in the flourishing town of Salem Oregon, are pronounced by experts superior in point of quality and finish to those made East and equal to those imported from France The agents of these mills Lindenberger & Burke No 28 Sansome street dispose readily and as fast as they arrive of the entire and large product of the mill averaging in value forty thousand dollars per month

Mr Garfielde is sweeping everything before him in the river counties A friend in Pacific county says that the whole county is almost a unit for him, that the proportion of the vote will be six to one in his favor and they expect to cast three hundred votes this fall A gentleman residing in Cowlitz county writes that prominent Republicans in Wahkiakum county assure him that Garfielde will receive between thirty and forty majority without fail in that county —Olympian (Courier)

CITY.

ASBESTOS —A few days ago Mr J [illegible] this city, was sent a specimen of [illegible] known as asbestos, found in considerable [illegible] in Jackson county He examined it and found it to be of a superior quality and as yet has not become an article of commercial value, the present price in New York only being $60—a price which does not justify its shipment Asbestos possessing rare and singular qualities has met with but limited uses in the operations of science or the mechanical arts The most marked peculiarity of the substance is its non-conducting properties to heat and electricity, either by wear or the tendencies of the elements Although among the metals, asbestos appears to have properties which does not regularly belong to that department of Nature. It is a mineral, but is borne by the beautiful family, is translucent and flexible only in appearance a fragment of the mineral is slow or ox The mineral is found in veins or serpentine and other primary formations asbestos is remarkable for its structure that of parallel fibres like threads laid together These are so flexible that the metal is thrown in hot water or steam the length of time, the fibres expand and are stripped off like a loose cord, separated them woven into fabrics. Cloth made from these minerals is not effected by the most intense heat, and may be cast with impunity into the fire, which produced no other effect than cleansing it. This art was not unknown to the ancients, who wrapped the embalmed bodies of their illustrious dead in such metallic cloth In more modern times experiments were made with various portions of Europe, testing the value of cloth made from that same material, and clad in such a uniform could walk unharmed through a burning building Heretofore never been used to any extent in the arts, or at least sufficient to consume even a limited quantity It is frequently used by chemists and physicians in the detention of poison, and has been known to render infallible service in post mortem examinations over the bodies of persons who have been supposed to be poisoned. A long series of experiments may yet discover some latent property which may render it of incalculable value to the science or mechanics, and thus greatly increase its present value as an article of commerce Oregon seems to have locked up in her bowels of the earth and undiscovered store of mineral wealth What other mineral will she next yield to the light of day?

FAIRLY CAUGHT —Ministers, physicians, the press have all especially anathematized their general denunciation of the moral and physical effect of many of the prevailing fashions, the habit of wearing high heels Yesterday afternoon a practical demonstration of the unconscionable and embarrassing results of wearing extremely high heels on the streets A handsomely dressed and respectable appearing lady was seen proceeding First street in the afternoon [illegible] She was clad in the height of fashion, and of course wore a pair of high, metallic heeled boots as she was tripping daintily over the open cellar, on the sidewalk, one heel slipped between the iron bars of the grating and remained fastened The stronger she pulled the more her heel stuck, while she lost her balance several times and came near toppling over The picture was quite brilliant for a few moments that the lady's foot would be seen on the public highway The poor woman was in a bad fix, and [illegible] was near at hand to assist her to extrication from her heel She tugged and tugged again, but all in vain, she was about to give up in despair and take off her gaiter, when a laborer came to the rescue. He had a stout cane in hand which he inserted between the bars and pried them far enough apart to enable the lady to pull out Ladies who persist in wearing such high heels, should avoid rough, uneven sidewalks and gratings if they do not wish to create a scene similar to the one we have just related.

THREE CHARGES —A painter named Newman got drunk noon yesterday, having some money in his pocket and treating with his mistress, proceeded to her residence and began to destroy the furniture The [illegible] informed officer O Hara who entered the house and arrested the fellow in the midst of his [illegible] and proceedings No [illegible] more he was found arrested, and resisted [illegible] until that officer was compelled by main force to throw him down and handle him violently to the earth and hold him [illegible] finding himself overpowered, Newman refused to get up from the ground and accompany the officer to the station house A gentleman who witnessed the struggle came to the assistance of O'Hara This latter officer regarded the man that he gave the gentleman a severe blow with his fist during an unguarded moment which [illegible] him somewhat length the refractory [illegible] with a rope, so that his advance could be something Still refusing to go with the officer [illegible] a passing dray and had the [illegible] regardless of oil and white lead, [illegible] away to jail, loaded with thoughts like a hog [illegible] charges have been entered against Newman for disorderly conduct, assault and battery, and resistance to an officer The case will come up for hearing before Judge Denny this morning.

CITY DIRECTORY —In another column will be seen the advisement of Mr. S J McCormick in relation to the City Directory of Portland This will be eleventh annual issuance of this invaluable publication, a work which the business public have grown to regard as a necessary and important book of reference As in former years the work will comprise a general directory of citizens, and also a Business Directory, besides the usual compliment of statistical information relative to the progress and prospective growth of Portland and East Portland. No effort will be spared to make the forthcoming work superior in respect to those issued in former years, and it will be the special purpose of the compiler to make the City Directory for 1873 as complete and full in all its details as the materials and time will warrant. Mr Aaron Bush [illegible] will commence to canvass the city for advertisements and other valuable information connected with the Directory. It is the intention of the publishers to have the work ready for distribution by the 1st January, 1873.

NO LONGER SINGLE —[illegible] is often [illegible] To tread the weary way of life alone is not always pleasant Our [illegible] Tom Cole came to that conclusion a few weeks since, and he has saddled his own canoe for the [illegible] long years Thomas has drawn a ticket in the lottery of life, and, with his usual luck, has drawn a handsome prize in the form of a dashing [illegible] Tom expresses himself as right royally pleased with his new relations, and says that a couple of single blessedness is an old exploded idea

MONEY DRIFT —The money drift at the common Council last night was unusually large The members would do well to be a little more careful in auditing the various claims against the city, and thereby an occasional leak in the treasury may be stopped Doubtless many of the claims are correct, but it certainly do no harm to be careful. The City Attorney has no watch dog in the Council, but keeps a pretty bear.

UPPER COLUMBIA —Operations for the removal of obstructions to the channel of the Upper Columbia will be commenced without delay, and will be prosecuted vigorously until the work

Oregon seems to have locked up in her bowels an untold and undiscovered store of mineral wealth What other mineral will she next yield up to the light of day?

FAMILY CAUSEWAY.—Ministers, physicians and the press have all especially anathematized, in their general denunciation of the moral and physical effect of many of the prevailing fashions, the habit of wearing high heels. Yesterday we had a practical demonstration of the uncomfortable and embarrassing results of wearing extremely high heels on the streets. A handsomely dressed and respectable appearing lady was seen promenading First street in the afternoon yesterday. She was clad in the height of fashion, and of course wore a pair of high, metallic heels Just as she was tripping daintily over the opening to a cellar, on the sidewalk, one heel slipped between the iron bars of the grating and remained tightly fastened The stronger she pulled the more firmly she heel stuck, while she lost her balance several times and came near toppling over The prospect was quite brilliant for a few moments that a shoeless lady's foot would be seen on the public streets. The poor woman was in a bad fix, and no one was near at hand to assist her in extricating the heel She tugged and tugged again, but it was all in vain; she was about to give up in despair, and take off her gaiter, when a laborer came gallantly to the rescue. He had a stout cane in his hand which he inserted between the bars and pried them far enough apart to enable the heel to slip out. Ladies who persist in wearing small, high heels, should avoid rough, uneven sidewalks and gratings if they do not wish to create a scene similar to the one we have just related

TRIED CHARGES —A painter named Newman, arrested yesterday, having some misunderstanding with his mistress, proceeded to her house and began to destroy the furniture The woman informed officer O'Hara, who entered the building and arrested the fellow in the midst of his disorderly proceedings Newman swore he would not be arrested, and resisted O'Hara until that officer was compelled by main force to throw his prisoner violently to the earth and hold him there Finding himself overpowered, Newman refused to rise from the ground and accompany the officer, when a gentleman who witnessed the struggle, came to the assistance of O'Hara This so enraged him that he gave the gentleman a vio[lent] blow in the face, and in the unguarded moment which hurt [him] several length the refractory fellow was secured with a rope, so that his resistance was [rendered] nothing Still refusing to walk, the officer hired a passing dray and had the [prisoner] placed on top of oil and white lead, hauled away in that [manner] and with things like a hog Three charges have been entered against Newman—disorderly conduct, assault and battery, and resisting an officer The case will come up for hearing before Denny this morning

CITY DIRECTORY —In another column will be seen the advertisement of Mr S J McCormick, in relation to the City Directory of Portland This will be the eleventh annual issuance of this valuable publication, a work which the business men have grown to regard as a necessary and convenient book of reference As in former years it will comprise a general directory of citizens and also a Business Directory, besides the compliment of statistical information relative to the progress and prospective growth of Portland and East Portland. Mr Aaron Bushwiller will commence to canvass the city for advertising and other valuable information connected with the Directory. It is the intention of the publishers to have the work ready for distribution by the first of January, 1873.

NO LONELY SOLITUDE is often painful, for to tread the weary way of life all alone is not always pleasant. Our old friend Tom Cottle came to that conclusion a few weeks since, although he had peddled his own canoe for the space of a long years Thomas has drawn a ticket in the lottery of life, and, with his usual luck, secured a handsome prize in the form of a dashing bride Tom expresses himself as right royally well pleased with his new relations, and says this thing of single blessedness is an old exploded humbug

MONEY DRIFT —The money drift at the Common Council last night was unusually large The members would do well to be a little more careful in auditing the various claims against the city, as thereby an occasional leak in the treasury might be stopped Doubtless many of the bills, and perhaps all of them, are correct but it would certainly do no harm to be careful The City Treasury has no watch dog in the Council Stop tockets at $15 a piece are pretty dear

UPPER COLUMBIA —Operations for the removal of obstructions to the channel of the Upper Columbia will be commenced without delay, and will be prosecuted vigorously until the required work has been performed Next week Major Robert and Captain West will visit the river on an official tour. The various points where the most serious impediments exist will be inspected, and work laid out as specified in the contract awarded to Mr J B Montgomery.

ROYAL NUPTIALS —All the available bunting was hung to the breeze yesterday from the masts and rigging of the bark Jorreard The reason of this display, we learn, was in honor of an approaching marriage of the daughter of the present reigning sovereign of the Chinese Empire The nuptials were to have been celebrated yesterday with all the pageantry and elaborate ceremonies of custom and ceremony with that ancient race.

FIRST LOAD —The first new load of iron from the ship Zonave was towed up from Astoria to Kalama last Tuesday by the Jos McNear The vessel—Zonave—will proceed to the last mentioned port as soon as sufficiently lightened to reach that point with ease and safety After discharging the railroad iron at Kalama the Zonave will come to this port and receive a cargo of wheat for Liverpool

INTERESTING LECTURE—Rev J M Stephenson of Chicago, will deliver a free lecture in the Unitarian church on the signs of the times, or the French and Prussianwar and the downfall of the Papacy in the light of prophecy—lecture to commence at 7½ o'clock, Thursday evening Clergymen and Bible students especially invited

The Jos McNear towed up yesterday a large raft of logs from different points down the river

An aspiring young dramatist is at work on a farce based upon the late remarkable murder trial in this city It is to be called "Fair Play"

A rural cotemporary remarks "The yellow pumpkin has gotten on the hillsides" The poetry of that remark induces pie ous thoughts.

S Bowers from Covington, Kentucky Mr Bowers was transferred by the M E Conference of that State to the Oregon Conference That body at its last session appointed Mr Bowers to the pastorate of the church at Salem for the ensuing year and he is on his way thither to assume charge His wife and son accompany him

FROM HONOLULU —The bark Jane A Falkinburg made the voyage from Honolulu to the mouth of the Columbia in fifteen days The weather was unusually propitious and the sailing fine She was towed from Astoria to Portland by the tug Ben Holladay The tug, although disabled, in having only one propeller, made very good time with the bark

FAILURE TO CONNECT —By an unavoidable and vexatious mistake, the usual package of the Oregonian for a Salem carrier, Osmon Royal, failed to leave this city yesterday morning We regret this delay as much as subscribers do Arrangements have now been effected by which a repetence of the same mistake will be avoided in the future

Our Bodily Infirmities.

Physical infirmities are the lot of all Millions are always sick No man, woman or child is uniformly in perfect health Much, however, of the sickness and suffering which render life a burden to so many of our fellow beings is due to ca oissions and neglect A mighty antidote to the leading causes of disease has been provided It is as harmless as it is efficient No poisonous drug enters into its composition It is no undefined stimulant, tonic and aperient, of which every ingredient is vegetable. This unexceptionable preventive and restorative medicine is not a new thing under the sun Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon have been before the world a quarter of a century, and it is not too much to assert that thousands aye, tens of thousands are now using it who would have been in their graves years ago had they not been strengthened and sustained by this wholesome stimulant The rapidity with which minor ailments often become, when neglected obstinate diseases is well known This tonic is famous for the immediate check which it gives to those breeders of deadly disorders The accession of languor, the sick headache, the nervousness, the indisposition to exertion, the nausea, the confusion of the physical debility, which are intended to premonish us of the approach of serious danger, are invariably removed by a few doses of the Bitters The fame of the preparation as a genuine specific for dyspepsia, bilious complaints malarious fevers rheumatism and chronic debility, is wide as the world, and in these days of infamous charlatanism when fierce cathartics, that rob and invalid of the last remnants of his strength, are advertised as invigorants (!), it is indeed a blessing to mankind that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are every where procurable, and everywhere popular.

PLANTATION BITTERS!

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate and arctic, of which every ingredient is vegetable, every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

She Stammered She Did.

When deeply in love with Miss Emily Tyson,
I vowed if the lady would only be mine
I would always endeavor to please her—
She blushed her consent, though the stuttering lass
She said never a word except "you're an ass—
An ass—an—ass—hideous tease."

But when we were married, I found to my ruth
The stammering lady had spoken the truth;
For often in obvious dudgeon,
She'd say—if I ventured to give her a jog
In the way of reproof—"You're a dog—dog—dog—
A dog—a dog—motle curmudgeon."

And once when I said "Woman hardly afford
This extravagant style with our moderate hoard,"
And hinted we ought to be wiser,
She looked I assure you, exceedingly blue,
And fretfully cried, "You're a Jew—Jew—Jew
A very ju—dicious adviser."

And when in my pained that, wishing to shirk
Some rather unpleasant and arduous work,
I begged her tongo to a neighbor,
She wanted to know why I made such a muss,
And shortly said "You're a cuss—cuss—cuss—cuss—
You were always a—cuss—torrent to labor!"

Out of temper at last with the insolent dame,
And feeling the woman was greatly to blame
To scold me instead of caressing,
I imbibed her speech, like a cheerful as I am,
And angrily said, "You're a dam—dam—dam—
A dam—ago instead of a blessing."

—John G. Saxe.

Stanley's Story.

THE LIVINGSTONE EXPEDITION.

Henry M. Stanley writes a letter to the New York Herald from London, of date September 13, in reference to his African expedition, which shows that in England, at least, his labors are not underrated, nor his claims disputed. He says:

Let me dilate a little upon the accusations levied at me

ABOUT THE LIVINGSTONE LETTERS.

You know yourself, sir, as well as your former agent, that I was utterly ignorant of the commission you gave me at the Grand Hotel in Paris before you delivered to me instructions regarding it. Captain Francis R. Webb, late consul at Zanzibar, now residing at Salem, can tell you, as an impartial witness, how I set about the work you requested me to perform. Mr. Spalding and Mr. Morse, both of whom are at this present moment at New York, can also add their testimony to it. Mr. John Bertram, the great merchant at Salem, can also inform you whether or not he honored the drafts I drew on you. Dr. Kirk, also—with whom I have at present an unpleasant difference about the aid he says he freely gave to Dr. Livingstone, but which I say that he did not give so freely as is generally believed—can inform you whether or not he preparatory to marching for the interior. Also the Journal des Debats of Paris states that Mr. De Vienne, then Consul of France at Zanzibar, acknowledges to have seen me on that island preparing my expedition. Apropos of Mr. De Vienne, it is said that this gentleman "described me as rather eccentric in my way of doing things; that I refused everybody's advice and was consequently reduced to my own resources." This gentleman by saying so, for it seems to me that I thus avoided the rock upon which the English Livingstone Search Expedition split. Lieutenant Dawson had too many advisers, and therefore failed. Had he not acted according to the advice of Dr. Kirk, Lieutenant Dawson had surely succeeded. When Mr. De Vienne says that I refused everybody's advice he refers to my having refused Dr. Kirk's advice some way at Ugogo—which was surely which no sane man would have adopted.

SAW ME AT BAGOMOYO,

UNCONSCIOUSLY GIVES ME HIGH PRAISE

I have stated that I found Livingstone in Ujiji, just returned from the Lualaba; that I obtained two letters from him, one addressed to "James Gordon Bennett, Esq., Junior," and the other addressed to "James Gordon Bennett, Esq., New York Herald;" that

TO NEITHER OF THESE LETTERS HAVE I PUT PEN OR PENCIL;

that I neither interpolated nor suggested one word, phrase or quotation to Doctor Livingstone while he was writing them; that I know not what he had written until he had finished writing them and handed them to me, asking me, "will these do?" That I delivered them to your agent, whom I met at Marseilles, precisely as the letters were written by Dr. Livingstone. What I have stated above I will adhere to until Dr. Livingstone shall himself come to England and publicly proclaim the fact himself. As for which I brought with me Lord Granville, of the Foreign Office; J. B. Braithwaite, Livingstone's solicitor; Thomas Steele Livingstone, the Doctor's eldest son; Miss Janet Livingstone, the Doctor's sister; Miss Agnes Livingstone, Captain Black, of the Pacific and Oriental Company; Mr. James Young, of Durris House, near Aberdeen; Dr. John Kirk, Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at Zanzibar; Rev. Horace Waller, the Doctor's friend, have one and all come forward to testify to their authenticity. In the letters to his children Dr. Livingstone speaks of things with which no living person, least of all an American newspaper correspondent, could possibly be cognizant of. In his letters to the Foreign Office the Doctor writes of countries that were wholly unknown to any one east of the Lake Tanganyika, that no fancy, however fertile, could have imagined. Again, advised by her Ministers, has signified her approbation of my conduct by sending me a gold snuff box enriched with over sixty diamonds, and a letter of thanks, signed by Lord Granville; she has also received me most graciously at Dunrobin Castle, the seat of the Duke of Sutherland, and has taken the opportunity of thanking me in person. Now, is it possible that the British Ministers could be so thoroughly deluded as to advise Queen Victoria to send me such a testimonial, or to receive me in person through any appearances whatever other than genuine? Can any imposture, however consumate, however darling hope for such success?

THE AUTHENTICITY OF THE OTHER LETTERS

THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND,

I might ask, also, how was it possible that I could have obtained the "Lett's Diary," full of observations and geographical notes, which I delivered over to Miss Agnes Livingstone, and which precious property lies now in the strong room of a Glasgow bank? How came I possessed of the Doctor's chronometers and watches, for which I have the receipt from Admiral Richards, of the Hydrographic office, London?

But if, after the receipt of this letter, there may be unbelievers still, my advice to them is to form and find out from Livingstone himself whether the letters I brought are genuine or not. Then perhaps, if they live to come back to tell their story, they must bear witness to my veracity at least, if to nothing else. In the meantime, sir, I would ask whether you ever found cause to repent of your confidence in me, or had reason to suspect in the least my truthfulness and integrity? If you can conscientiously answer "No!" I shall feel amply rewarded, and need no more.

ANOTHER EXPEDITION FOR CENTRAL AFRICA

I remain, sir, your most humble servant,
HENRY M. STANLEY.

A CELEBRATED GUN.—The Cologne Gazette says that one of the wonders of the arsenal of Metz was a monster cannon 15 feet long and 25,000 pounds in weight, cast early in the sixteenth century, by order of Richard of Greiffenklaul, Elector of Treves. The French found it in 1709, at Ehrenbreitstein, carried it off as a trophy, with 189 other pieces, and deposited it at Metz, where the Germans after the late siege expected to find it. It had been taken to Paris, however, and placed in the Museum of Artillery, where it now remains. The enormous gun bears the following inscription in old German:

Der Grett heiss Ich,
Meinem genedigen Herrn von Drier dien ich,
Wo er mich heisst gewalted,
Will ich Dorn und Mauern spalten.
Simon gross mich, 1528.

(I am called the Vulture:
I serve my gracious Lord of Treves,
Where he orders me to shoot
I batter doors and walls.
Simon cast me, 1528.)

The French Illustration has published an engraving of the celebrated gun which the Germans, for the best reasons in the world, did not take at Metz. But the Germans find some consolation for their loss in the fact that the French artist, judiciously ignorant of the German language, has written beneath his picture, "Cast by Simon Grossmich, 1528."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Oct. 16, 1872.

Gold in New York to-day, 114.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 87c buying; 88 selling.

Wheat in Liverpool, 13s. 2d., and 13s. 4d.

The steamship Orizimba which arrived at this port last evening from San Francisco, brought 570 tons of assorted cargo.

The bark Melancthon was towed down to the mouth of the Wallamet this morning by the tug Ben Holladay. The tug returned in a few hours, and towed down the bark Almatia to Kalama where she will discharge some railroad iron.

The bark Garibaldi for Hong Kong went to sea on Tuesday.

The San Francisco Chronicle has the following on the matter of misquotations in the price of grain in Liverpool of which we spoke yesterday:

The matter having been thoroughly ventilated; it is evident enough that the telegraphic quotations of the price of California wheat in Liverpool are in every respect untrue, and it is safe enough to assert that they are falsified to "bear" the market. The explanations that have been offered are very lame. It is asserted that they are the same rates as those sent to all the leading cities of the Union—New York, New Orleans and Chicago, for instance—and that they represent the average prices of good wheat. Neither of these assertions can be substantiated, and if they could, they would not meet matters.

Those telegrams are seldom or never quoted in New York or New Orleans, or the other cities mentioned, and they could not be found in their leading newspapers when the "explanation" was published. It is true that the Chicago Tribune quotes the same price as the journals of San Francisco. But that only fixes more firmly the charge of the transmission of false quotations; for the paper in question gives it as the price of white wheat, and in the Liverpool markets the only description of spring wheat quoted are California and Chili, the prices of both, as given in the English organs of the produce market, being nearly always about the same.

It is therefore erroneous to say that the prices are the average ones of good wheat, for they are not; they are telegraphed as going to be understood as prices of California wheat, and they rise and fall precisely as the true quotations of the latter rise and fall. There should be no object in making known on the Exchange of San Francisco the Liverpool price of any wheat, save only of California, except it was done with intent to deceive.

Now what is the remedy for all this? Nothing less than the establishment by the Farmers' Clubs of California and Oregon of an agency in Liverpool, with instructions to keep them thoroughly posted on the fluctuations of the market, the state of crops in Europe, the demand for the coming months, the means of supplying them, the quantity and value of cereal imports and exports, and all other matters of interest to the grain-grower on the Pacific Coast. It could also make contracts on favorable terms with English grain houses for the delivery of California wheat in English ports. The expense of such an agency would be comparatively trifling, and would not be worthy of consideration when weighed against the resulting benefits. If the leading members of the Farmer Clubs are wise, they will urge the necessity of immediate action; for no amount of remonstrance by the Press will avail much in correcting the evils resulting from the combinations of speculators if those principally interested do not move for the matter themselves.

The Monthly Report of the Department of Agriculture for August and September is at hand, and from it we gather some statistics in regard to the crop prospects in various parts of the Union.

Of the corn crop 917 counties report. Of these 524 report an average crop, 580 report above average, and 163 below average. Nine counties in Oregon are reported, 7 average, 1 above and 1 below.

In cotton the prospects throughout the entire cotton area, which favored a yield 5 per cent. larger than an average product, promises at the present time about 9 per cent. less than an average. The increase of area over last year, and the unfavorable character of the season of 1871, still point to a material increase in the total crop of 1872, while the possible extension of insect ravages, or the early occurrence of frost, may modify the present expectation.

The September returns, which give the condition of wheat when harvested, present the following list of States above average: 100 on average, Maine, 109; North Carolina, 109; South Carolina, 102; Georgia, 104; Alabama, 105; Mississippi, 102; Louisiana, 102; Texas, 120; Arkansas, 108; Tennessee, 116; Kentucky, 110; Minnesota, 104; Nebraska, 109. Those below 100 are New Hampshire, 95; Vermont, 91; Massachusetts, 97; Connecticut, 93; New York, 85; New Jersey, 80; Pennsylvania, 76; Delaware, 92; Maryland, 74, Virginia, 99, West Virginia, 90; Ohio, 84; Michigan, 95; Indiana, 97; Illinois, 98; Iowa, 100.

Oats throughout the New England States about 108. In all the Middle States below average, in all the Southern States much below, except North Carolina, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky. North of the Ohio, Illinois reports an average crop, the other States being from 1 to 9 per cent. below. West of the Mississippi, the crop was from 4 to 14 per cent. above average, except in Iowa—2 per cent. below, where, in many places, it ripened too rapidly. In California, it was 1 per cent. below. Contra Costa county is said never to fail of a fair crop. In Oregon there was a deficiency of 4 per cent.

The barley crop is quite deficient. East of the Mississippi, the only States that reach an average are Connecticut, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Alabama, in all of which the average is small. Of the Southwestern States, Texas, Tennessee, and Kentucky are above average, as are, also, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, and Oregon. All the other States are deficient.

In the New England and Middle States the hay crop was above average, except in New Jersey, where it was 10 per cent., and in Delaware where it was 16 per cent. below. From North Carolina to Florida the crop was above average, but westward to the Mississippi several per cent. below. Kentucky is above average. Ohio and Michigan are, respectively, 18 per cent. and 8 per cent. deficient. All the other Western and Pacific States are above average, the excess ranging from 3 to 14 per cent.

Rust and rot, resulting from excessive rains, reduced the potato crop in the Northern New England States, through New Hampshire rises to average. The Middle and Southern Atlantic States are below average, except North Carolina and Georgia. In Delaware and Maryland potatoes suffered from severe drought, reducing this crop in the former 27 per cent., and in the latter 35 per cent., below average. Of the Gulf States, Florida is 0 per cent. and Texas 22 per cent. above average; all the rest are below. Arkansas is full average, Tennessee and Kentucky 6 per cent. above; West Virginia 10 per cent. Below. North of the Ohio, Indiana and Illinois are full average or above; the others below; Wisconsin being deficient 20 per cent. West of the Mississippi, all the States are above average, except Nebraska, which is 2 per cent. below. California is 7 per cent. below, and Oregon 5 per cent. above.

The apple crop is reckoned about average throughout the country except on the Pacific Coast, where it will hardly reach three-fourths of a crop. Other fruits about the same.
